

A PAGE OF PICTURES ASSEMBLED FROM THE NEWS OF PHILADELPHIA AND ITS ENVIRONS

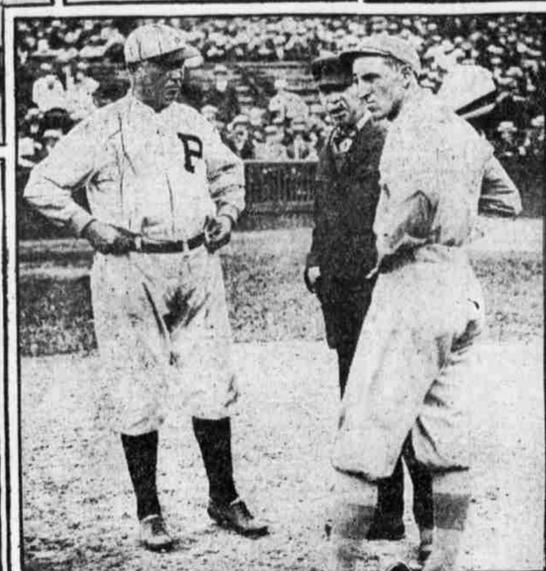

Members of the Chestnut Hill Volunteer Reserves Battalion assemble twice each week on St. Martin's Green to perfect themselves in the rudiments of the war game.

OFFICIAL INSPECTING PARTY VIEWS WORK OF DEVELOPING THE PORT
Members of the navigation committee of the Chamber of Commerce and city officials toured the river front aboard the police boat Ashbridge and found satisfactory progress being made.

DREDGING THE DELAWARE'S CHANNEL AN ENDLESS JOB
Year in and year out the work of keeping nature from "filling in" off Port Richmond continues in the interest of navigation.

A friendly chat before the Phillies' last game with the Giants. Left to right, Pat Moran, Umpire Klem and "Charlie" Herzog, acting manager of the Giants during McGraw's banishment.

SCHOOLBOOKS ASIDE, HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS GO A-GARDENING
These students from West Philadelphia High are cultivating a tiny war garden along Walnut street between Forty-sixth and Forty-seventh streets.

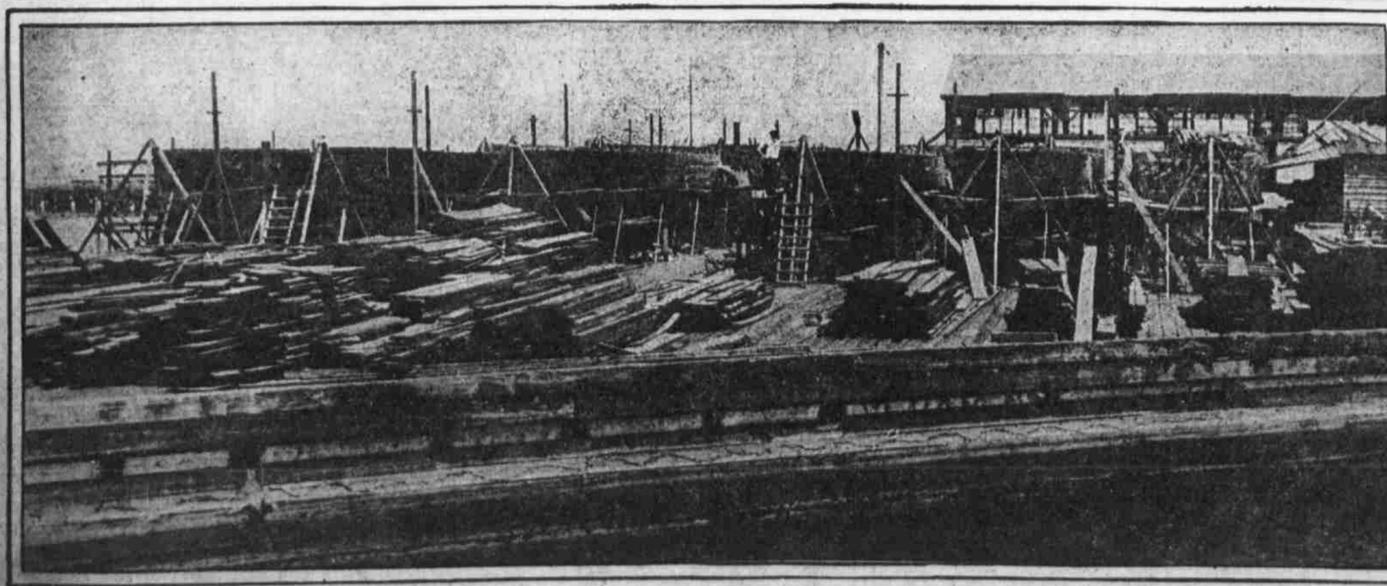

A LITTLE CHAT BETWEEN DRILLS AT ALLENTOWN
Left to right, Captain Ryan Deveraux and Sergeant H. W. Arner, at the Ambulance Training Camp on the Fair Grounds.

Horses generally are known as heavy drinkers, but only rarely does one run across an equine taste for soft drinks, as here.

WHAT IS SO RARE AS A DIP IN THE SURF?
Nothing can equal it in the opinion of these fair bathers who have been enjoying the jolly sport on the Atlantic City beach.

WHOLE FAMILY OF SUBMARINE CHASERS IN COURSE OF CONSTRUCTION
An ordinary scene these days at the great shipbuilding plants not far from Philadelphia. Contractors are far ahead of schedule in turning out these high-powered motorboats.

Photo from Kadel & Harbert